

Julian Culliford

Saturday, 11:00-11:50 class

In English, please give alternatives for the words or phrases below which come from the article that we are reading in class “What happens when words don’t translate between languages?” (e.g. “plenty of plant species” = “many different types of plant”)

1. “a repository” (2nd page, 5th paragraph, 2nd line and the phrases in 2. to 10. follow in order after this one)
2. “stark contrasts”
3. “haven’t been exposed to the Industrial Revolution” (OK to keep “Industrial Revolution”)
4. “oral language” (OK to keep “language”)
5. “it’s been challenging” (OK to keep “it’s been”)
6. “a glossary”
7. “localized words” (OK to keep “words”)
8. “elusive”
9. “culinary”
10. Now for something a little different. The article states that English did not have a term to describe umami but I personally would disagree with this. I believe that English did have a term to describe the taste that umami denotes in Japanese. Can you find out what that word is? It is only one word and it begins with an “s”.